

NEW OFFICERS OF WOMEN'S CLUB FEDERATION.

MRS. PHILIP N. MOORE, FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

LACK OF BALLOTS DELAYS ELECTION

Delegates to Women's Federation Wait Two Hours for Polls to Open.

WILL KNOW RESULTS TO-DAY.

Positions of Honorary President Stricken From Official List on Account of a Divorce Case.

So far as the principal officers are concerned, the election held by the Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday undoubtedly will be identical with the report of the Nominating Committee. The only contest is as to which of the fifteen directors nominated from the floor will be chosen.

There were 630 votes cast by the delegates and alternates, which is about two-thirds of the voting strength of the convention, but at midnight the tellers had not finished the count and were left at their work in the hope that the result might be announced at the convention this morning.

The delay was partly due to the fact that several delegates were permitted to vote after the close of last night's session.

BALLOTS DELAYED.
"Where are the ballots?"
"Why don't they come?"
"When are we to begin voting?"
These and scores of other questions were repeatedly asked by hundreds of delegates as they paced the corridors of the Odessa yesterday afternoon.

It was after 2 o'clock. For half an hour the ladies had been awaiting the opening of the polls announced for that hour. But 2 o'clock came and 2:30, and still not a ballot to be had.

Then came the sad confession from a member of the committee in charge. The chairman was a guest at the Hotel Jefferson. She had noted with pride how beautifully the house printer had arranged the various and assorted menus which had tempted her from day to day.

She had decided to rather than risk the printing of the previous ballots to the hotel printer. When they were returned, it was said, it was impossible to discover clearly where Mrs. Sarah Platt Becker was a candidate for president of the federation or was to be served as a chef d'oeuvre for the hotel dinner.

At any rate, much of the work had to be corrected, and it was 2 o'clock when the joyful news was proclaimed that the ballots had arrived.

ELECTION'S VALIDITY.
Meanwhile another disconcerting rumor had got abroad. The rule of the convention, as adopted, was that the election should take place between 2 and 4 o'clock. Would an election after 4 o'clock be valid? Would the officers be legally elected?

"Horror!" exclaimed an officer of the convention, when the faithful report reached her. "Don't let anyone start that kind of stuff here. Mrs. Denison, Mrs. Denison was appointed to be a parliamentary officer. She solved the problem in a jiffy."

"We will vote for four hours after the polls are open," she declared. "The convention has any objection it can say so today. We shall vote as the same."

Then there were more reports to mark the tickets and another rush to the various polling booths at the Odessa, and for four hours the members revelled in the exciting privilege of voting. The fact that there was but one candidate on the ticket for nearly all the principal offices was in no way permitted to militate against the excitement of the afternoon.

They had voted, and that was sufficient for last for two more years.

With one sweep of the hand the Federation of Women's Clubs voted the first of honorary presidents from the roll of officials yesterday and thereby accomplished the purpose of the election.

Those members who divided the import of the proceeds for the benefit of the red cross, they did not know what moment the storm might break, but so swiftly and effectively did the work of the president, perform her part of the program that the matter was accomplished without so much as a question.

TO REVISE ROLL.
It has been known for some time that the Federation desired to revise its roll of honorary presidents. In 1933 it had been decided that each president who had served two consecutive terms should, on retirement, become an honorary president. It was on this roll and under this rule that the lady who is said to have incurred the disapproval of many members by recently marrying a man who had been divorced but two weeks, held this honorary title. Mrs. Poppenheim, who made the motion and who herself is an honorary president, was willing to sacrifice that honor for the sake of the Federation. It also happened that Mrs. Denison, the retiring president of the Federation, had only served one term, and under the rule, the Federation could not bestow upon her the honor they desired.

"Reading the old rule," said they, "we find that the list and begin by electing such honorary president as the Federation may desire. This puts everyone on the same footing, and no one can object and we have accomplished all that is desired. It is active and retroactive, but parsimonious."

MOTION IS MADE.
Mrs. Ellen M. Henrion, herself an honorary president, made the motion that the rule adopted at Denver in 1933 be rescinded, and that all honorary presidents be elected by the convention. A half dozen members seconded the motion and Mrs. Denison had put the question. There was a spontaneous vote in the favor of a few dissenters, and the motion was declared carried.

The report of the Nominating Committee was received and accepted without objection. There was an idea that after all Mrs. Denison's many admirers might place her name in nomination for reelection and with her great personal popularity sweep the convention. But this if contemplated, was not attempted, and when someone mentioned Mrs. Lockwood of Washington for office, she caught the convention by declaring: "No, I am going to vote the ticket reported by the committee."

On the call for nominations from the floor Mrs. Fernal of Texas nominated Mrs. William C. Fernal of Texas, Mrs. H. O. Garvin of Kansas, Mrs. Lawrence Haynes of Kansas, Mrs. J. M. Smith of Missouri, Mrs. A. C. Scott, Oklahoma, Mrs. J. L. Smith, Oklahoma, and Mrs. J. L. Smith, Oklahoma.

MORNING SESSION.
The general session of the morning was devoted to the Civic Committee, of which Mrs. Ralph Trautman of New York City is chairman, and Mrs. E. B. Turner of Dallas, Mrs. B. W. Corkran of Baltimore, Mrs. C. N. Jones of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Mary S. McGee of New Mexico are members.

After a report by the chairman, Mrs. C. P. Hocking of Chicago read a paper on "Women in Outdoor Art." Doctor Thomas Dartington of New York City, member of the Health Department of that city, delivered an exhaustive paper on "How the Individual Can Become a Factor in Civic and Sanitation." He showed how the public school system in his city had done great work in inculcating the spirit of cleanliness and hygiene in the minds of the children, but the lesson was not being taught in the home.

Miss Mary Dock of Pennsylvania spoke on "Ten Years of Forestry." In that State the Forestry Department has been established, and she showed how the public school system in her State had done great work in inculcating the spirit of cleanliness and hygiene in the minds of the children, but the lesson was not being taught in the home.
